

Creating a userpage

After logging in, locate your username in the upper right corner of your screen. It will appear between a link to “New features” and “My talk,” and will have a person icon beside it.

Click on your red username. You’ll be redirected to a page titled “User:YourUsernameHere.” On this new page, click the link that says “Start the User:YourUsernameHere page” in the first bullet in the top box.

The screenshot shows the Wikipedia user page for 'User:Charlottesweb28'. The page title is 'User:Charlottesweb28' and the subtitle is 'From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia'. The main content area displays a message: 'Wikipedia does not have a user page with this exact name. In general, this page should be created and edited by User:Charlottesweb28. If in doubt, please verify that "Charlottesweb28" exists.' Below this message, there is a list of instructions, with the first bullet point 'Start the User:Charlottesweb28 page' circled in red. Other reasons for the message are listed below, including page creation delays, case sensitivity, and deletion logs. The page also includes a sidebar with navigation links and a footer with privacy policy and disclaimers.

A new page will open, called “Editing User:YourUsernameHere.” Beneath the title you’ll see a blank white space – this is the Wikipedia text editor. Go ahead and type something in the editor.
