Aims & Scope

Current Diabetes Reviews publishes full-length/mini-reviews, original research articles, drug clinical trial studies, and guest-edited issues on all the latest advances on diabetes and its related areas dedicated to clinical research, e.g., pharmacology, pathogenesis, complications, epidemiology, clinical care, and therapy. It also includes topics related to diabetic complications such as retinopathy, neuropathy, nephropathy, renal failure and impotence, hypertension, gastrointestinal disorders, hearing impairment, hyperlipidemia, vascular and coronary heart diseases. Articles related to pancreatic islet dysfunction and insulin resistance, adipose tissue function, and glucose homeostasis are also covered. The journal is essential reading for all researchers and clinicians who are involved in the field of diabetes.
